At first our friend, the Portland Express was only doubtful of the expediency of the proposed ballot reform law. As the discussion has proceeded, however it, has been forced to define and defend jes posttion, until by a very natural sequence it has come to but-Herod even The Hangor White in its antsponism to ascerat ballot.
If the Express had started right, it would, be on the right side now. Its case is only another illustration of the importance of beginnings. Had the Express keet quiet until it has carofully investigated the merits of the Australian system, it would probably now be on their right, after of the

The people of Maine are not troubling themselves about the accretional bill and the Legislature from all accounts has no intention of ferring 1 upon them

Mr. George C. Miln, who impleted himself upon the Bangor public as a triggedian two seasons ago, is "now doing! Australia". He ought to be able to cause thige rilagues, the jack raboits, to leave the country and if he does he will win the hearts of the Australians. He could perform the last mamed difficult feat in no other way.—
